The Times' Daily Short Story.

Woman's Diplomacy

Providence, who manages all things wisely and economically, wastes no talents on man for the management of woman. The wisdom of this course is that man needs no such talent until after marriage, and after marriage he has a wife to manage other women for him. The economy consists in the fact that men shall marry. A single man never appreciates the sensitiveness of the opposite sex. Woman hides her wounds, and man often stamps through her feelings with seven league boots. An incident that occurred to me aft er my marriage taught me this, and since then I have invariably left the settlement of my differences with other women to my wife. I had passed middle life before marrying. I had met ladies, as other bachelors meet them, socially, but my club was my home, and I was never thrown into in timate association with any woman. But I considered myself sufficiently mild mannered and deferential to the softer sex for all ordinary social purposes. What wounds I had inflicted I did not know, nor was I conscious of having inflicted any.

The honeymoon over, my wife took me in training, and it soon became apparent that I needed a great deal of However, in about a year I supposed I was thoroughly educated. One day my wife informed me that her dearest friend, whom she had not seen ing to visit her, and she was especial ly anxious that I should make a good impression. I resolved to be on my guard and put on my most affable and deferential manner.

The first evaling of Miss Bland's arrival my wife, my sister and our guest sat down to a game of whist. I was of course assigned to play with Miss Bland. I got on swimmingly. I saw that my partner knew little of the game, and it gave me an opportunity to show my wife that I could pass her friend's mistakes without the slightest reference to them. I would probably have gone through the evening without trespassing on my partner's feelings had not she made a misplay that gave me an opportunity, as I thought, to make a brilliant strike in soothing her.

I had a fine long suit, all of which I could make if I could draw my optrumps myself, all depended upon my | that"partner husbanding hers. My wife led a small spade, and I, destring to get the lead, put on the king. When my partner played, the trick was mine. She trumped it. I winced, but said nothing. My partner's error gave our opponents the odd trick.

"What is it?" asked Miss Bland. "To trump your partner's ace."

Miss Bland cast a quick glance at me, and I cast a glance at my wife, expecting to see approval in her face. I saw a frown.

There was an ominous tremor on Miss Bland's lip, and presently she arose, left the table and went upstairs. "Now you've done it," said my wife Sherburne Hollow, Dec. 14.- The conversation had to run to bear and bull pups in the general store the other night with some uncommon lively yarns as a result when Hen Whittaker bethought himself to stip up Luke Morse on the subject of his great grandfather's adventures down Barnard way, something more than a century ago. Mrs. Sarah Heaney's Quaker Range Cost Her Less Than a Cent a Day For 21 Years.

Woonsocket, R. I., Aug. 30, 1906.

A. S. Cook Company.

Woonsocket, R. I. Gentlemen :- I purchased my Quaker range in June, 1885, of Joseph Proulx, this city. Its number is 8-20 and it is in perfect condition. During the twenty-one years I have had it, it has had but two new grates and has been lined three times. It is a first class baker, is very-economical on fuel, and has given me perfect satisfaction.

I would not change it for any other make and as far as my work is concerned, it is as good as a new one.

Respectfully,

121 Ob Street.

What do you think of that ?

Mrs. Sarah Heaney.

We want to tell you the history of Mrs. Heaney's range, for it is typical of the good service given by the Quaker Ranges all over New England. In June 1885, Mrs. Heaney bought a Quaker Range for $48.00 and in twenty-one years of constant use it has only cost her $3.50 for grates and linings. This makes her total cost for twenty-one years, $51.50-an average of only $2.45 a year-less than 5e a week and less than one This is pretty cheap for a first class range, isn't it !- but there's more of the story to follow.

At the end of twenty-one years, Mrs. Heaney's range was in such good condition, that it was worth $25.00 and in addition to that she was the winner in one of our recent "Oldest Quaker Range Contests' -- receiving in exchange for her old range, a new Quaker worth $75.00. Therefore after using a Quaker Range for twenty-one years, Mrs. Heaney is now the owner of a brand new Quaker-the finest in the line-and is actually $24.50 to the good.
